About

Jillian Kong is a (developing) developer and student, residing in Vancouver, BC. Currently, she is in her third year of study at the University of British Columbia, where she is pursuing a degree in Cognitive Science and working as an automation developer for PayPal Canada. When she is not working or studying, she can be found webmaster-ing for the Cognitive Systems Society, singing in the UBC Women's Choir, or awkwardly dancing.

Originally from Calgary, Jillian enjoys breakfast food, 20th century literature, and attempting to make the web a more beautiful and dynamically resizeable place.
